

Abstract

The invention relates to the prophylactic and therapeutic treatment of subjects for the purpose of inhibiting vaso-occlusive events, including embolism, by administering agents which reduce the number of circulating platelets to below normal levels. Methods and 5 pharmaceutical preparations comprising such agents are provided.